

Greetings,

Thank you for your interest in Ancestral Mountain Tuina School (AMTS). AMTS is a bodywork school certified to operate by the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia. It offers professional training in Jin Shou Tuina™—a nationally registered bodywork system that is strongly rooted in traditional Chinese medical theory. This unique program combines the instruction of both traditional Chinese medical theory and bodywork techniques with internal martial arts training—a time tested and effective method that forms the foundation of our program.

The one-year Jin Shou Tuina™ and Traditional Chinese Medicine program consists of 600 hours in academic and practical training designed to prepare students for licensure and professional practice as entry-level clinical Jin Shou Tuina bodywork practitioners. Graduates will be eligible to take the NCBTMB National Certification Exam which is the qualifying exam for Virginia and many (but not all) states.

In addition to the full-time certificate program, we are also offering part-time study in Traditional Chinese Medical Theory and Anatomy and Physiology. Detailed program and curriculum information is available in our catalog, which can be downloaded at brccm.org

We are pleased that you are considering applying to our program. Completed applications are due by Thursday, July 1, 2010. We will notify applicants in writing of admissions actions by Saturday, July 31, 2010. Please indicate if you would also like email notification.

I am available to assist you regarding the application process or to provide information about our programs. Don't hesitate to call or email if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Jody Franko
